

Funny Fah Learns When to Stop

funny far learns when to stop. in a palace far away lives a kindly old man. his name is master chai lou. every day his little chimes provide the palace visitors with happy relaxing melodies. master chilu loves to be involved in their adventures. this is the story of little funny far.

one morning when the breeze began to blow the colorful chimes woke up and started to bump into their chime plates a lovely tinkling song began to float on the breeze.

can you see funny far he is the little red chime?

master chalu is very very happy when he hears the music and all the little chimes are happy too. funny far is very happy. he is always.

telling funny jokes. he shouts why did the banana go to the doctor? the others wait for him then he laughs because he wasn't peeling well. get it? peeling well. then.

why did the chicken cross the playground to get to the other slide? he laughs even louder funny far loves it when everyone laughs.

at his jokes what has ten wheels and flies we know?

that one, said little so but funny far wasn't listening to them he just shouted a garbage truck. he had told that joke lots.

of times. sometimes funny far goes too far with his jokes and also he gets too loud. would you like a friend who doesn't stop?

being noisy when you ask he shouted again where do cows go on saturday night? before funny far could say the answer?

they all shouted we know stop with the jokes!

oops funny far cringed and put his hand up he whispered to the movies. they just sighed. oh. after breakfast.

funny far got really annoying. a feather flew in through the window so he grabbed it and swung over near little tea.

hey little t how do you put your hand up in school? little t raised her arm and said like this. funny far quickly tickled her under the arm with the feather she giggled and pulled her arm down real fast. then she smiled to be friendly to funny.

far but only just then he tried to tickle little tea under the chin but she just did not feel like being tickled anymore. funny far tried again behind her ear he just didn't know when to stop.

did he he started to really annoy little t?

she gritted her teeth and cried out stop it! let us see if funny far took any!

notice every evening before the sun sets the palace workers put away their mowers and rakes and gardening tools the birds in the trees whistle their last little songs for the day.

even the tree is happy can you see the big smile? sun smiles and says bye wave good night to the sun.

good night the little chimes start to yawn and take turns sleeping on.

the little chime plates behind them each chime has a colorful pillow. master chylu puts a blanket over them on the cool nights the wind blows cold off the mountains near the palace.

the worker putting the rake away is really happy tonight he can see the little chimes through the window. guess what happened when it was funny far's turn to go to bed he could not resist one more joke.

but it was time for sleep not for jokes. knock knock.

he shouted. go to sleep they all replied but funny far was laughing loudly like a kookaburra. little so started to cry please go to sleep we want quiet time now.

she pulled her blanket over her ears so she couldn't hear him.

giggling into his pillow. the evening breeze had stopped and everything went hush. master chilu tucked little blankets around their ears some were sleeping on the chime plate while the others folded their hands and dozed off they were hanging on the strings tied to the bell-shaped top plate over their heads some of the little chimes watched the moon moving past the window until they fell asleep.

the only sound to be heard when master chilu left the room was naughty little far still giggling away on his pillow.

the bright moonlight was casting shadows through the window everyone felt safe and sound around master chilu's palace.

but let's see what happens a short time later.

funny far was almost asleep when he heard a rustling sound outside the window he lifted his head up with a jerk.

the baubles on his hat began to shake his mouth dropped open and his teeth started to chatter. what was he looking at the bright moonbeams had suddenly darkened and a scary shape moved near the window it moved away then it moved back again and came even nearer to him. what is it? his heart started to say?

boom!

funny far's eyes were popping open.

everyone else was asleep funny far struggled he didn't want to scream he whispered, who's there?

are you coming to get me mr monster? then he shouted ah?

go away mr monster wake up wake up everyone wake up!

the monster suddenly moved away from the window.

by now funny far was biting his knuckles and shaking madly funny far longed for his friends to wake up.

he leaned over and shook little tea little tea little tea wake up she angrily shouted go to sleep funny far no more jokes please but there's a monster just outside the window i'm not joking.

i saw a monster little t said yeah yeah yeah a monster. we know that one go to sleep all the rest just folded their arms and.

turned the other way. oh no funny far suddenly realized something funny far looked back at the window the monster had gone he looked and looked and looked.

the monster has gone and i'm the only one who saw it he thought he leaned back on his pillow and wished the others would believe him.

why didn't they believe me he asked now he couldn't sleep tears rolled down his cheeks he wondered and wondered i was just trying to let them know about the monster.

why wouldn't they listen to me what will i do if the monster comes back?

i tickled little t i said knock knock who's there. i told funny jokes what did i do wrong? funny far is?

thinking about his friends not the monster. next day the sun shone.

brightly on the palace. master chylu placed the little chimes outside in the breeze soon they were playing beautiful songs. funny far still tells jokes.

but now he is really different he is careful not to offend his friends he doesn't play tricks if it might hurt someone and he has promised he will not keep his friends awake when they ask him to stop he really wants to be friends with everyone.

do you think he has learned a lesson do you know what funny far saw?

was it really a monster? it was actually the gardener collecting some of the tools to put them away.

c here is the gardener collecting the rakes and clippers.

can you see the moon shadow of the gardener?

funny far thought the gardener was a monster moving back and forth near the window he thought the rakes and clippers the gardener is carrying look like the claws of a space monster.

the gardener moved away from the window before the other chimes saw him that's why little t shouted at funny far she was sure he would not stop joking.

was she right funny far still does not know?

who the monster was. and the other chimes have noticed how happy funny far is now would you tell funny farr the gardener collecting his rakes in the moonlight was not a monster?