

Hi Doh

this is the story of little hydo who is helped to manage his anger.

it is wonderful to hear the little chimes working happily together. they play pleasant tingling tunes for old mr diego.

in his mexican villa. mr diego is really happy to have his old friend master chai lu visiting from overseas. he flew in yesterday with his eight little chimes. mr diego placed the little chimes up high hanging from the ceiling. can you see hydo he is the purple little chime?

mr diego can see all the little chimes he can hear every single note as they are swinging around. he noticed too that each note is different. each chime has a different sound but together they play beautifully. he says welcome to my mexican villa.

mr diego now learns that their names are dough ray me far so la tea and hideo can you see haido he is the purple little chime. the little chimes have matured into clear individual sounds sometimes one note plays a lot louder than the others.

especially little hi dough he has grown into a handsome full-toned chime. his chime sound is a high c note and he likes to stand out can you see him chiming loudly?

hi doe grew proud in his spirit. now he holds his note long and loud when he hits his chime plate. the other chimes try to correct high dough but he doesn't listen to them. he selfishly rings out his high c note. it is a beautiful sound but he is not listening to the others when they try to correct him.

it wasn't long before hydo decided that he has star qualities. he is handsome and he is different now he is being very proud and stubborn.

i don't need all of you hi doe shouts i'm going out to make it on my own!

and off he went the other chimes are so sad to see little hydo become so proud and selfish. their master loves each one of the little chimes very much. mr diego loves him too.

the little chimes could still play many beautiful tunes without high doe. they let him go to prove himself they started playing the circle dance for mr diego and master chai lu little hydo is now anxiously walking towards his first appearance at a concert.

mexicans love a great musical show he was sure the crowd would love his performance. hydo went out and had some posters printed for his first appearance on the voice. he smiled proudly for the poster he wanted many people to turn up at the studio for his first appearance on the voice.

people bought tickets and sat in the studio waiting for the voice to start.

suddenly little hydo appeared on stage and started to sing his hi-c note he proudly sang it long and loud.

at first everyone thought it was interesting.

but as hydo continued with his one note only singing they began to shout at him boring what else can you sing? can you do anything else? hi dough was so embarrassed?

hydo is very lonely now he begins to run back to his friends.

he wants the comfort he feels when he is around his friends. he wants to see master chy loo and mr diego.

he begins to realize that although he is handsome and individual he still needs his friends to make him happy he can't wait to get back with the other chimes.

hydo returned to his friends and stood at a distance.

hydo was glad mr diego was watching them play. and hydo was really happy when he saw how forgiving his little friends were.

they ran to cuddle him. hydo could see that each of his friends was a happy little individual. they were making beautiful music even without his high c note playing.

for the happiest ones of all their grand old master chai loo and mr diego. can you see hi dough and funny far singing they are singing doe ray me far so lar t hideo?
